

"Wheeling and Dealing..."

"Johnny Hollingsworth, who chose harness racing to occupy himself after going into 'semi-retirement' from his auto body manufacturing business at Vancouver, headed off to the Harrisburg sales a couple of years ago and spent 12 grand on six fillies, four of whom he has got to the races so far ...The other day he sold a trotter, Keystone Leah, to Jean Parent, representing Quebec interests, for $10,000. He had bought her for $3,400. So almost in one fell swoop, he's virtually out on the transactions, and has a good collection of potential broodmares, over and above what he'll get out of them on the race track... Johnny is strictly a man for the gals. That's all he plans on keeping around. He'll sell off the colts that come along and just keep the fillies, the better to get more fillies with." (Vancouver Sun, 1971, courtesy of Mr. Clare Hollingsworth of Vancouver, received 2 Oct 1971.)

-165-

---