Mulliner was the organist during the service. The bride was given in marriage by her son, William L. Hollingsworth. She wore a lovely afternoon frock in blue fortrel with scoop neckline and three-quarter bell sleeves. A dainty tiara held her blue net veil in place, and she carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds and lily of the valley with trailing blue ribbon. Miss Vivian Gorham, sister of the groom, was the bride's attendant, gowned in pink fortrel with a princess line, featuring short sleeves. Her headpiece was a tiara holding a pink net veil, and she carried a bouquet similar to that of the bride. Robert Gorham, brother of the groom was the best man, and ushers were Brian Summers and Wayne McMahon.

At the reception in the David Thompson Motor Inn, the decorations were in the Valentine Theme. The head table was centred by a lovely two-tiered cake, decorated in pink and white with silver hearts and topped with a pink rose. Tapers in cut glass candlesticks and vases of red and white carnations also graced the table. Lloyd R. McMahon was Master of Ceremonies and proposed the toast to the bride.

Mrs. Brian Summers was in charge of the guest book, and Miss Vicki Hollingsworth, granddaughter of the bride, asked the blessing.

Following their honeymoon in Northern Alberta, the happy couple plan to make their home at Lee Creek, B.C. Many guests attended from Bon Accord, Alberta; Field, B.C.; Edgewater, B.C.; Port Coquitlam, B.C.; White Rock and Cranbrook.
